

Letter of Originality

With this document, the author(s)¹ (enter at the end of the document the first name(s) and surname(s) of each author) declare that the article entitled:

--

- It is original, the result of research, and has not been submitted simultaneously to any other journal for publication.
- There are no financial commitments or obligations with private or government agencies that could affect the content, results, or conclusions of this article.
- They are aware of the Ethical Code of the Revista de Comunicación y Salud and fully comply with its requirements.
- They assume full legal responsibility before third parties for the information and opinions expressed in their article.

Likewise, the author(s) agree that, if the manuscript passes the Preliminary Review phase by the Editorial Committee:

- Their article will be submitted to the double-blind peer review process for its possible publication in Revista de Comunicación y Salud.
- They accept any corrections to the article that may be required after being notified of any relevant concerns regarding certain aspects of their manuscript.
- That, if the article is accepted with modifications, they will make the requested corrections within the stipulated time.

¹List of the first name(s) and surname(s), email address(es), and signature(s) of each author certifying their approval of and agreement with the submitted article.

Full name	Email address	Signature	Telephone contact (for the corresponding author only)

Additional authors, if applicable (from the fourth to the tenth)

Full name	Email address	Signature